

Community Voice

Why is there a double standard when it comes to staff wearing or displaying things that communicate a personal view?

Teachers at multiple elementary schools have worn the shirt shown below, but another employee of KSD was asked by administration not to wear a mask that supports law enforcement. How does KSD decide which personal views are permissible to express in this way and which are not?

Staff are allowed to wear this:

But not this:

All examples and narratives that KFEI shares are verified.

If you would like to submit an experience or resource that you think the KSD community should be aware of please do so here.

Sources of examples will be protected as confidential, but all accounts must be fully verified and supported by documentation and/or firsthand experience. The integrity of this effort is critical and KFEI reserves the right to use discretion when choosing what to share.
